

THE BANFF CENTRE

The Banff Centre Identity Project - Slogans

(Should that word, identity, be in quotes? Identity as used in graphic design, not as in identity politics.)

But let's not get bogged down in semantics. The point here, or rather the question I want to ask is whether an institution that supports and promotes creativity should reflect creativity in all its aspects, not merely in the activities of the artists who participate in its programs but also in their administration and presentation. And if, conceptually at least, it should, then how?

One way it might do this is by engaging the creative resources available at the Centre, a.k.a. YOU, in the formation of the Centre's identity.

You can contribute to this part of the project, testing out this hypothesis, by inventing a slogan for The Banff Centre, adding to the list below. Multiple entries are welcome but please initial them.*

- Robert Labossiere, Artist-in-residence
Babel, babble, rabble

* Do I need to say this? That by contributing a slogan, you are granting me the license to use your words. Perhaps, so I'm saying it.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN VACATION AND VOCATION IS O.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN JUNGLE AND JINGLE IS I.

EVERY DAY IS A GOOD DAY.

EVERY DAY IS A FANTASTIC DAY.

EVERY DAY IS GOOD BUT EVERYDAY IS BETTER.
